

ABSTRACT

Natural lycopene concentrate obtained from a plant structure after alkalization, solid-liquid separation, acidification and a second solid-liquid separation. The concentrate obtained is highly bioavailable and water-soluble at room temperature.